Wedding Video Details:

1. Videographer(s) will arrive about 2 hours before your ceremony to prepare and cover pre-ceremony action with 1 video camera. We may ask the bride and groom, separately of course, to share how they feel to the camera.
2. Ceremony coverage with 3 video cameras (more or less) and 2 videographers (more or less). Almost any number of cameras may be used and manned depending on our particular agreement and other situational factors. Ceremony cameras usually stay on a fluid head tripod. We usually use two cameras in the front and one in the back middle with a separate audio capturing device near the altar.
3. Reception coverage with at least 1 video camera manned. The videographer usually goes to the reception immediately after the ceremony to work on getting feedback/comments, etc. from your guest. We work to cover all the highlights of your reception as well (announcements, first dance, cake cutting, bouquet toss, etc...) depending on the timing of events. We may wrap up with asking the bride and groom to share something together to the camera for a nice final touch.

After Your Big Day

After the event everything is transferred to computer for editing. The post production phase usually takes over 20 hours spread out over approximately a 2 week period. While we may do it quicker we like to take our time and not rush creativity so we it may occasionally take longer, esp. if it's a busy season.

Your wedding video may have title pages, wedding theme transitions, and effects. Transitions from one scene/camera to another are generally subtle fades that do not distract from the actual event. Other effects may include animations, effect, and/or split screens to show action that may be occurring simultaneously (e.g. a singer on one side of the screen and the Bride and Groom on the other).

If your reception is very dark we may add lightening to ensure our best coverage of your event. Usually this just involves a video camera light that's usually 10 to 40 watts or asking the DJ to turn up the lights just a little bit.

Add Your Own Spice

You may add your own spice to your movie at the intro of the video or reception or on the menu page. For example, you may include your own song and/or picture in the menu or movie. Just be sure to you have permission from the copyright holder! You can also say something on a title page in the movie, just tell us and we'll include it! That is, if you tell us before your honeymoon because we may be almost done by the time you get back. If we have a "program" from the wedding we may include the wedding party in rolling credits at the end of the ceremony scene.

Slide Shows

Slide Shows may be included as well, usually for an additional cost. An example of a Slide Show that you may want to include may be pictures from each of you growing up, rehearsal pictures, pictures from the photographer, and/or pictures from your honeymoon. Each slide show can have music, up to 99 pictures in each slide show, and can be put on your wedding disc if there's enough room. A disc typically can only be 2 hours.

Your Disc

The last step: Authoring Your Wedding Video to a Disc. We'll create a customized menu that may have:

- Background Music
- A Picture from the wedding in the background
- Buttons to play entire movie and scene selections
- And labeled with a picture from the wedding printed on it
